ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This is the twenty-sixth of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois, and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. The project, specializing in low-altitude aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as The American Aerial County History Series. For a list of already-published volumes in Illinois, see back of title page of this book. Each of the volumes is being written by John Drury, author of Old Illinois Houses, Historic Midwest Houses, Midwest Heritage, etc., and member of the American Association for State and Local History and the Illinois State Historical Society.

In the preparation of this work on Peoria County, Illinois, the writer and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of the city of Peoria and the county of Peoria, Illinois. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgment to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof-reading assistance.

Grateful appreciation is also shown here to officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Commerce and to officials of the Department of Public Roads & Planning of the State of Illinois (in particular to those in charge of that department's Bureau of Research and Planning in the Highway Department), for permission to use the Peoria County maps included in this book.

STORY OF PEORIA COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Containing the second largest city in Illinois and rated 139th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States, Peoria County, located on the Illinois River in the north central part of the Prairie State, is of singular interest as the scene of some of the very first activities of white men in the upper Mississippi Valley. It was on the site of present-day Peoria city that Louis Jolliet and Father Jacques Marquette stopped briefly when they first discovered the upper Mississippi Valley in 1673, and it was just opposite this site that the great French empire-builder, La Salle, landed in 1680 and built the first military post in what is now the State of Illinois.

If the Peoria metropolitan zone, comprising an area of 1,292 square miles in both Peoria and Tazewell counties and with a total population of 250,512, is known throughout America as a leading producer of caterpillar tractors, bulldozers, Diesel engines, farm machinery, Hiram Walker whiskies and Pabst beer, it is also widely famed for its cultural and other institutions, among these being historic old Jubilee College, modern Bradley University, the Peoria State Hospital, Glen Oak Park, the United States Research Laboratory, the Spalding Institute and Fort Crevecoeur State Park.

Furthermore, the county's principal city—a city of skyscrapers, manufacturing plants, warehouses, railroad yards, residential districts and parks—is unique for its situation. Occupying a mid-position on the important Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway, Peoria city overlooks a grand natural sight—Lake Peoria. The lake is about eighteen miles long and was formed by a natural widening of the Illinois River. Fronting on the lake is the city's great Municipal River and Rail Terminal, with its many cranes and overhead conveyors carrying loads between trains and towboats.

Additional interest attaches to Peoria County by reason of the numerous great personages of American history who left their imprint on the pages of the county's annals. In addition to Louis Jolliet, Father Marquette, La Salle, Tonti and the other early French explorers, these personages included, at a later date, Abraham Lincoln, who came here as a lawyer and orator; Stephen A. Douglas, who often appeared in Peoria city; Robert Ingersoll, famed as a lawyer, lecturer and agnostic; the Right Reverend Philander Chase, first Bishop of the Episcopal Church in Illinois and founder of Jubilee College; Bishop John L. Spalding, first Roman Catholic bishop of Peoria; and Lorado Taft, celebrated American sculptor.

FIRST WHITE MEN

First recorded white men to step on the soil that now is Peoria County were those two renowned discoverers of the upper Mississippi Valley region, Louis Jolliet and Father Jacques Marquette. After undertaking their first history-making journey on the Mississippi River, which they entered from the Wisconsin River, in 1673, they were returning to Quebec by way of the Illinois River when they stopped at an Indian village where now Peoria city stands.

We are told by Father Marquette, in his journal of the expedition, that they visited for three days at the village, which was composed of the bark huts of the Peoria tribe of Indians—the tribe that gave its name to the present city and county. But Father Marquette spelled the name of the tribe as "Peouarea," and added they were a subdivision of the great Illinois tribe—the race that gave its name to the present State of Illinois.

Father Marquette says further that he preached to the Peorias during his stay and that just before leaving them he baptized a dying child brought to him. This was the first baptism performed in what is now Peoria County. And Father Marquette's preaching was also the first religious activity in the future county.

What Jolliet and Marquette saw as they paddled in their canoes along the Illinois River must have greatly impressed them. In his journal, the explorer-priest wrote: "We had seen nothing like this river for the fertility of the land, its prairies, woods, wild cattle, stags, deer, wildcats, bustards, swans, ducks, parrots, and even beaver; its many little lakes and rivers."

He added that the Indians had their own vivid name for the Peoria locality, calling it "Pimiteoui"—"The Land of Great Plenty."

LA SALLE BUILDS FORT CREVE COUER

After Jolliet and Marquette returned to Quebec and reported their findings, all of the upper Mississippi Valley was claimed as a colony for King Louis XIV of France and given the name of New France. Some three or four years later the great French explorer, Robert Cavalier, Sieur de La Salle, was commissioned to head an expedition into the new colony, build forts to hold it, and obtain a monopoly of the fur trade. This expedition, consisting of thirty men in eight canoes, descended the Illinois River and arrived at Lake Peoria in 1680.

Among members of the expedition were Henri de Tonti, a faithful lieutenant of La Salle's who was popularly known among the Indians as the "Iron Hand," and Father Louis Hennepin, chaplain of the group. Others in the expedition were guides, artisans and fur traders. On arrival at Lake Peoria, the expedition built, at a point opposite the Indian village (in what is now Tazewell County) a strong palisaded military post which was named Fort Crevecoeur ("broken heart") after a fort in the Netherlands which had been earlier captured by the French.

After completing Fort Crevecoeur and placing Tonti in charge of it, La Salle and a few men returned to Quebec for supplies. About three months later, while Tonti was absent on a local exploring trip, the fort on Lake Peoria was plundered by its men, who then fled into the wilderness. With the return of La Salle to the Illinois country, it was decided to build a new fort at Starved Rock. When this was finished, it was called Fort St. Louis.

La Salle then went on to search for the mouth of the Mississippi River, and, on reaching it in 1682, claimed all of the lower Mississippi Valley for France, naming it Louisiana. Several years later, La Salle was murdered by some of his own men while near the Trinity River, in present-day Texas. Thereafter, Tonti was placed in command of the French colonizing project in the Mississippi Valley.

FORT PIMITEOUI

About 1691, Tonti decided to abandon Fort St. Louis at Starved Rock and build a new fort on the site of present Peoria city. When this was completed, he named it Fort St. Louis, but it became better known by the Indian name of Fort Pimiteoui. It will be recalled that the Indians bestowed this name on the Peoria region because it meant "Land of Great Plenty."

Soon, a settlement of French fur traders and their families grew up about Fort Pimiteoui. It is on this settlement that some local historians base their claim that Peoria is the oldest city in Illinois, explaining that Cahokia (which claims to be the oldest) was not founded until 1699. If a settlement of white men grew up around Fort Pimiteoui, however, it did not remain in continuous existence. For one thing, it was largely abandoned in 1699 when the French set up a new center of activities at Cahokia, just below present-day East St. Louis.

In the decades following, some French fur traders and voyageurs returned and lived at the Lake Peoria site, but there were never enough to form a village or town of any consequence. And this remained the situation even after the close of the French and Indian Wars in 1763—a conflict in which France lost to Great Britain its vast wilderness territory in the interior of America.

By that time, the original thirteen American colonies were firmly established on the Atlantic seaboard. Then came the American Revolution of 1775-1783. After George Rogers Clark and a handful of American backwoodsmen captured key British military posts in what later became Indiana and Illinois, the American flag was for the first time raised over that vast portion of the Midwest lying east of the Mississippi River (the region west of the river then belonged to Spain).

TERRITORIAL DAYS

Just after the close of the American Revolution, there was formed the Northwest Territory, so-called because it lay northwest of the Ohio River. It was out of this territory there came, later, the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota. When the Territory of Illinois was created in 1809, future Peoria County lay in St. Clair County, which then embraced most of Illinois.

By that time, a new French settlement had taken root at the Lake Peoria site, composed of traders who returned to carry on business with what few Peoria and Pottawatomie natives remained in the region. Believed to have had a population of not more than sixty-five white persons, including a few women, this settlement was known variously as Au Pe, Le Pe, Opa and Au Pay. As early as 1800, however, it was beginning to be referred to as Piorias; the 's' was not pronounced.

END OF FRENCH PEORIA

It was during the War of 1812 that old French Peoria came to a sudden and tragic end—due to a military blunder. When, at that time, word was brought to Governor Ninian Edwards of Illinois Territory that the Indians of northern Illinois were moving southward to attack American settlements, he hastily formed a militia expedition and, heading it himself, marched on the French village at Lake Peoria.

The governor thought this village was a strategic center of Indian activities in the upper Illinois country. But when he and his militiamen arrived, they found the settlement deserted. Nonetheless, they destroyed the Indian part of the settlement, a part ruled over by Chief Black Partridge. They did not know then that Chief Partridge was friendly to the Americans and that, at the moment, he was absent from his village because he was trying to locate Americans kidnapped by Indians at the Fort Dearborn Massacre at Chicago.

Shortly afterwards, Governor Edwards sent another force of militiamen to the Lake Peoria settlement, this one headed by Captain Thomas Craig of Shawneetown. When a few stray shots, fired by unknown persons, greeted Craig and his soldiers, they immediately swooped down on the French village, destroyed a large part of it, and carried off all of its inhabitants.

It was afterwards learned that these French settlers at Lake Peoria were friendly toward the Americans, or at least neutral in the War of 1812. When this was ascertained, they were released from military custody. Instead of returning to the Lake Peoria region, however, they scattered to other parts of the state. And thus came to an end the long, and constructive, role played by the French in the early development of Peoria County.

CONSTRUCTION OF FORT CLARK

Although the Lake Peoria site was a "deserted village" just after the close of the War of 1812, it did not long remain so. Realizing the strategic value of the site, as had the French more than a hundred years earlier, General Benjamin Howard of the American army led an expedition to the site in 1813 and there built Fort Clark, which he named in honor of George Rogers Clark. He felt this fort would serve to overawe any Indian tribes still hostile to the Americans.

Built of logs in the form of a stockade, Fort Clark was about 100 feet square and one corner of it faced toward the lake. This fort was garrisoned intermittently until 1818, at which time it was abandoned. The site of Fort Clark is marked today by a bronze historical plaque on the wall of a power plant at Liberty and Water streets, in Peoria city. As may be seen, this site is just at the lower end of Lake Peoria.

FIRST AMERICAN SETTLERS

A year after Illinois was admitted to statehood in 1818, there arrived in the vicinity of abandoned Fort Clark a party of seven men who became the first American settlers of what is now Peoria County. These seven were Abner Eads, Seth Fulton and Josiah Fulton, all Virginians by birth; S. Dougherty, J. Davis and T. Russell, all Kentuckians; and Joseph Hersey, who came from New York.

Completing two log cabins they found partly built and abandoned, the men of the party laid out a farm of fifteen acres, planted corn and potatoes in it, and enclosed it with rails they found lying about. It was in the early spring of 1819 these men arrived. In June of that year, Abner Eads brought his wife and children to the place, and for some time thereafter Mrs. Eads served as cook and housekeeper for all of the seven men.

Of the original seven, however, five did not long remain at this first American settlement in Peoria County. These five were Seth Fulton, Dougherty, Davis, Hersey and Russell. Of the two who stayed, Abner Eads later became a prominent personage in early county affairs, and Josiah Fulton spent the rest of his long life in the county.

Soon other settlers followed the original seven to the Fort Clark site. Among the best known of those who came before 1825—the year in which Peoria County was organized—were John L. Bogardus, Joseph Bryant, John Dixon, William Eads, Samuel Fulton, Isaac Funk, John Hamlin, William Holland, Elijah and Norman Hyde, James Latham, George Sharp and Isaac Waters.

In addition to these, quite a number of others settled in the countryside beyond Fort Clark during the years before Peoria County was established. Among them were Lewis Hallock, who staked out a claim about 1820 in what is now Hallock Township, and Gershom Silliman, Moses Clifton, Samuel Clifton, Resolved Cleveland and Hiram Cleveland, all of whom came about 1825 and settled near Hallock's cabin.

In 1822 there arrived Daniel Prince, who built a cabin in what is now Princeville Township; he was later joined by his brother, Myron, and by Stephen French. In 1824 came the earliest settlers of present-day Medina Township. The first of these were John Ridgeway and George Love, who came in 1824. A few years later they were joined by Abner Cooper, Henry Thomas and Samuel Clifton.

ORGANIZATION OF PEORIA COUNTY

Apparently, newcomers were arriving fast in the years just after Illinois became a state. By 1825 there were an estimated 450 persons within the locality that became Peoria County that same year; of this estimated total 44 were taxable inhabitants. In any case, enough citizens were living there to form a new county. And so it came about that the Illinois state legislature passed an act on January 13, 1825, setting up the new county of Peoria.

Although the new county's boundaries were fixed by the act as at present, Peoria's jurisdiction, in the beginning, was extended to a vast unorganized territory that reached from the Illinois River to the Wisconsin line and included Chicago. At that period Chicago was a small settlement of log cabins clustered about Fort Dearborn. If any of its residents wanted to obtain a marriage license, or a license to operate a tavern or a ferry, in the period just after 1825, they had to journey by horseback or canoe to the county seat town of Peoria. But this situation lasted for only a few years and was discontinued after new counties were formed in the unorganized region.

While Peoria County was still the "parent" county of the widespread region that included Chicago, a census of the entire region was taken and this showed a total of 1,236 inhabitants. This total included those living in what is now Tazewell County, which then was also under the jurisdiction of Peoria County. It is to be remembered that at that early day northern Illinois was a thinly-settled wilderness region and Indians were still living in the area; they did not leave until after the Black Hawk War of 1832.

COUNTY'S FIRST ELECTION

When the new county held its first election on March 7, 1825, its voters had only one polling place in which to cast their ballots. This was in the Peoria log cabin home of William Eads, an early settler. With the polling place at Peoria, then, very few of the total of 1,236 inhabitants in Peoria County and its attached territory (which included Chicago) appeared at the Eads cabin that first election day. There were only sixty-six votes cast.

After the ballots were counted, it was found that the following were elected Peoria County's first officers: William Holland, Nathan Dillon and Joseph Smith, commissioners; Samuel Fulton, sheriff; and William Phillips, coroner. Two of the commissioners, Dillon and Smith, and Coroner Phillips were then residents of the area that now is Tazewell County.

On the day following the election, the new officers held their first official meeting in the Peoria cabin home of Joseph Ogee, a half-breed Indian who served as interpreter for the community. The commissioners began their duties by appointing Norman Hyde as county clerk and Aaron Hawley as county treasurer. They then ordered that the county seat should be called Peoria and that a courthouse should be built there as soon as possible.

At later meetings, the commissioners appointed Robert Berresford, Reuben Bratton and Seth Wilson as constables, named a panel of grand and petit jurors for the Circuit Court, and appointed Abner Eads, Stephen French and Daniel Prince as school trustees. Also, William Smith was recommended to the Governor of Illinois as "a suitable person" for justice of the peace.

When, several months later, Norman Hyde resigned as county clerk (to become probate judge), his place was filled by John Dixon, afterwards to become the founder of Dixon, Illinois. The commissioners also appointed John L. Bogardus as county assessor. They then divided the county into three election precincts.

The Chicago precinct included all of the region east of the Du Page River and for a polling place the commissioners named the home of Dr. Alexander Wolcott at Chicago. Dr. Wolcott was then Indian Agent at Chicago and his home was popularly known as "Cobweb Castle," so-called because Dr. Wolcott was a bachelor and neglectful of his household duties.

TOWN OF PEORIA PLATTED

It was on September 6, 1825, that one of the county commissioners, William Holland, in association with several other citizens, presented a petition to the commissioners calling for the establishment of a townsite at Peoria. This was promptly acted upon, and Holland and a lawyer of the period, William S. Hamilton, were ordered to plat the town.

Not least interesting about William S. Hamilton is that he was a son of Alexander Hamilton, the renowned American statesman who was killed in a duel with Aaron Burr, former Vice President of the United States. An Illinois lawyer for some years, William S. Hamilton, it is said, once met Aaron Burr in St. Louis and challenged him to a duel. But Burr declined, we are told, because his challenger was too young for such an encounter.

When their work of platting the townsite of Peoria was completed, Hamilton was paid $58.45 for his services and Holland was allowed $10.50. A public sale of town lots was then ordered for July 10, 1826. At the sale, a total of twenty-nine lots were sold for $1,445.87. Terms of the sale of the lots required a ten per cent payment in cash and the remainder in twelve or eighteen months.

FIRST COURTHOUSE

It was not until 1836 that Peoria County's first permanent courthouse was completed. The delay was caused by difficulties in securing a clear title to the tract of land in Peoria set aside by the state legislature for a courthouse site.

Among these difficulties were certain old French claims to the tract. Eventually, the controversy was cleared and work was started on the county's first courthouse.

This building, as we have already noted, was finished in 1836, and the records show it cost a total of $5,545.65. It is described as a two-story edifice of brick construction, designed in the Greek Revival style then popular, and with a tall cupola over its columned portico. In addition to serving as a courthouse, this building was used for religious services, community gatherings and entertainment programs, although no admission fee was allowed for these extra-curricular affairs. It was in front of the portico of this courthouse that Abraham Lincoln delivered an important speech in 1854. This building remained in use for more than forty years, when it was replaced by the present courthouse.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMBOAT

When the first steamboat to arrive at Peoria tied up at the city's riverside on a December day in 1829, it inaugurated a new form of transportation that greatly helped in the development of Peoria County. Soon other steamboats were calling at Peoria, and by 1840 there were forty different vessels in the St. Louis and Peoria run. This went up to fifty-nine steamboats in 1850. It was due largely to its then leading position as a river port that Peoria experienced its greatest increase in population—from 1,467 in 1840 to 5,095 in 1850 (an increase of 247.3 per cent).

JUBILEE COLLEGE FOUNDED

One of the earliest institutions of higher learning in Illinois was Jubilee College in Peoria County. It was first started in 1839 as a preparatory school by the Right Reverend Philander Chase, first Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Illinois. At an earlier period he had founded Kenyon College, now a leading Ohio institution. After coming to Illinois, Bishop Chase immediately began laying plans for Jubilee College, fourteen miles northwest of Peoria city. It was chartered as a college in 1847.

Although the college prospered for a few years after the death of Bishop Chase in 1852, it soon encountered financial difficulties and finally was closed during the Civil War. Fortunately, its stone buildings and tree-shaded campus remained intact. In 1934 the grounds and buildings were acquired by the State of Illinois and converted into Jubilee College State Park. The grave of Bishop Chase, marked by a stone lectern, is located in the park.

LINCOLN SPEAKS IN PEORIA

Although not one of the Great Debate series, Abraham Lincoln's speech in Peoria in 1854 was important in that here, for the first time, he came out publicly against slavery. He delivered the speech in front of the south portico of Peoria County's first courthouse on the evening of October 16, 1854. It was an answer to an address delivered that afternoon by Senator Stephen A. Douglas. During the senatorial campaign of 1858, when Lincoln sought unsuccessfully to unseat Senator Douglas, the tall Springfield lawyer spoke once more in Peoria. On the day of that address (August 19), Lincoln stopped at the Peoria House.

ROBERT G. INGERSOLL

An outstanding lawyer of ante-bellum days in Peoria was Robert G. Ingersoll. In later years he became widely known in America as an orator and as "The Great Agnostic," so-called because of his anti-Christian views. He was the son of a Congregationalist minister who came to Illinois in 1845. Robert Ingersoll was admitted to the bar in Illinois in 1854 and began the practice of law at Peoria. During the Civil War he organized a cavalry regiment and was commissioned its colonel. In later years he became attorney-general of Illinois. Colonel Ingersoll died in 1899. A bronze statue of Ingersoll stands today in Glen Oak Park, largest of Peoria's recreation places.

FIRST RAILROAD

On a November day in 1854 the citizens of Peoria County loudly cheered the arrival of the county's first "Iron Horse"—another new form of transportation that became one of the most important factors in the evolution of the county. On that day there was completed to Peoria city the Peoria and Bureau Valley Railroad, a line that had been chartered by the state legislature on February 12, 1853. In 1849, however, the legislature chartered the Peoria and Oquawka Railroad, but this line was not completed to Peoria city until 1857. It is now part of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy System.

LORADO TAFT IS BORN

Now regarded as one of the foremost of American sculptors, the late Lorado Taft was born, on April 29, 1860, in a plain little house at Elmwood, in Peoria County. At that time his father, Don Carlos Taft, was a professor in Elmwood Academy. Here the young Lorado Taft spent his earliest boyhood years, but when he was twelve his family moved to Urbana, Illinois, his father having been appointed professor of geology at the University of Illinois.

As is generally known, Lorado Taft is best known in Illinois for his "Fountain of the Great Lakes" and "Fountain of Time" in Chicago and for his towering Black Hawk statue at Oregon, on the Rock River. He also designed "The Pioneers" at Elmwood, conceived as a tribute to his father and mother and other Illinois pioneers. The sculptor died in 1936. His daughter, Emily, is now the wife of Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois. She herself was formerly a member of Congress, having been first elected to the lower house in 1945.

BISHOP JOHN L. SPALDING

After the Right Reverend John L. Spalding was consecrated a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church in 1877, he was sent to Peoria and there, as first bishop of the Peoria diocese, attained high rank as a religious leader, scholar and humanitarian. His diocese included not only Peoria County but many other counties in that part of Illinois. For more than thirty years Bishop Spalding directed the destinies of his church in that region, winning the respect and esteem of not only Catholics but of many non-Catholics. He retired from this work in 1908 at the age of sixty-eight. Bishop Spalding died in 1916.

SECOND COURTHOUSE BUILT

In the years after the Civil War, the county's population increased so rapidly, with a corresponding expansion of its official county business, that a newer and larger courthouse became necessary. It was in 1878 that Peoria County's second courthouse was completed at a cost of approximately $249,000. When the building was dedicated on November 18, 1878, citizens of the county beheld an impressive Italian Renaissance structure of white stone, three stories high and surmounted by a domed tower containing a huge four-faced Seth Thomas clock. In the tower, also, was hung a great bell weighing four thousand pounds.

Incidentally, the county's historic first courthouse, built in 1836 and in front of which Abraham Lincoln delivered an important address in 1854, was sold to a local citizen, David Burns, for $250. By the terms of the sale, Burns was required to demolish the building within ten days.

WHISKEY INDUSTRY

When Almiran S. Cole set up the first distillery in Peoria in 1844, he started an industry that has since brought national fame to the city on the Illinois River. In the Peoria County volume of the Inventory of the County Archives of Illinois we find these words: "The distillation of alcoholic liquors has always been the principal industry of Peoria, except during the period of national prohibition . . . Peoria was almost ideally located for the whiskey industry since the city was in the center of a great corn-producing area. By 1880 Peoria had attained world-wide prominence in the whiskey industry . . . Not long afterwards, other distilleries were constructed, including the Great Western Distillery, which until the coming of prohibition was considered the largest in the world."

BRADLEY UNIVERSITY

Now one of the Prairie State's leading institutions of higher learning, with a present enrollment of 4,315, Bradley University in Peoria city was established in 1897 through the generosity of Mrs. Lydia Moss Bradley, widow of a pioneer merchant and banker. It was at first called Bradley Polytechnic Institute and then specialized mostly in technical courses. Since then, it has broadened out and now includes a College of Arts and Sciences, a School of Fine and Applied Arts, a College of Music, an Industrial and Trade School and a School of Horology. The last-named offers courses in watch-making and jewelry work.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MONUMENT

At the southeast corner of the Courthouse Square, in downtown Peoria, stands the county's imposing Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument, erected in memory of men of the county who fell in the Civil War. The monument, a tall stone shaft rising from a base containing symbolic figures in bronze, was dedicated in 1899 by President William McKinley in the presence of thousands of city and county residents. The designer of the monument was Fritz Triebel, noted sculptor and native son of Peoria city.

PEORIA PUBLIC LIBRARY

When the Illinois Free Public Library Law was enacted in 1872, the city of Peoria established the first library in the state under the new law. Today, the Peoria Public Library, located at 111 West Monroe Street, is one of the largest such institutions in Illinois. In 1881 and 1882 the library's collection of books was greatly increased by donations of volumes from the German and Mercantile Libraries, both of which had been in operation for some years previously. A further gift came from the old Mercantile Library Association in 1894 when it gave a substantial amount of cash, derived from the sale of its building, to the new library for construction of an edifice of its own. This was built in 1897.

CEDAR STREET BRIDGE

An outstanding achievement in the history of Peoria County was the building, in 1933, of the Cedar Street Bridge, which spans the Illinois River between Peoria and East Peoria. After its completion, the bridge won the Award of Merit plaque of the American Institute of Steel Construction for being the most beautiful span in the Class A (costing more than $1,000,000) type of bridges built in 1933. The Cedar Street Bridge is almost one and a quarter miles long and, being ninety-seven feet above high water, is one of the few bridges over the Illinois River that do not have a lift or draw span.

HISTORIC LANDMARKS

Among historic Peoria County landmarks drawn to scale by staff architects of the Historic American Buildings Survey in the 1930's were old Jubilee College, fourteen miles northwest of Peoria city, and the Methodist Episcopal Church at Mossville, near the Illinois River. These drawings, made under the supervision of Earl H. Reed, prominent Chicago architect, were placed in the archives of the Library of Congress and the Burnham Architectural Library in the Chicago Art Institute.

UNITED STATES RESEARCH LABORATORY

One of the most important institutions in Peoria County today is the Research Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture, located in Peoria city. Extensive work is done here in the development of new and improved uses of farm commodities.

'WHO'S WHO' IN PEORIA COUNTY

In the latest edition (1955) of that standard reference work, Who's Who in America, may be found biographies-in-brief of forty residents of the Peoria metropolitan area, which includes East Peoria and Pekin (in Tazewell County). Among the forty are United States Senator Everett Dirksen (of Pekin), Congressman Harold H. Velde, President David B. Owen of Bradley University and Bishop William L. Essex of the Quincy diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Others in the group are Alfred T. Brown, executive vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; John E. Cassidy, lawyer, civic leader and president of the Peoria Bar Association; Dr. Clarke E. Chamberlain, dental specialist; J. Russel Coulter, president of the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad; Justice Joseph E. Daily, of the Illinois Supreme Court; and Dr. Edwin H. Dummer, librarian of Bradley University.

Still others are John M. Elliott, lawyer and president of the Farmers Savings, Loan & Homestead Association; Professor Earl E. Emme, professor of psychology and religion at Bradley University; H. H. Fair, chairman of the board of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; Leonard J. Fletcher, a vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; Dean Arthur E. Gault, of Bradley University; Dean R. E. Gibbs, also of Bradley University; and Virgil V. Grant, treasurer of the Caterpillar Tractor Company.

Additional residents in Who's Who are Arthur G. Haussler, vice-president of Bradley University; Jay T. Hunter, lawyer and president of the Peoria Title & Trust Company; Edward W. Jackson, Jr., vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; Dean Robert Jamieson, of Bradley University; Dr. H. Worley Kendall, of the University of Illinois; Walter V. McAdoo, vice-president of the Keystone Steel & Wire Company; and Ralph M. Monk, lawyer and vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company.

The list continues with Harry D. Morgan, lawyer and vice-president of the Peoria Journal-Transcript as well as vice-president of the Peoria Broadcasting Company; Dr. Andrew J. Moyer, director of the Northern Regional Research Laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture; W. J. McBrian, a vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; John A. Moritz, president of the American Wire Association; and Frederick R. Oakley, editor and publisher of the Peoria News and radio and TV commentator.

Still more names in the list are Robert J. Riddell, president of the National Livestock Exchange; Carl G. A. Rosen, construction engineer of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; Theodore A. Schlink, president of the Central Illinois Light Company; Carl P. Slane, president of Peoria Newspapers, Inc.; Gail E. Spain, a vice-president of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; and Henry G. Sommer, Daniel P. Sommer and Reuben E. Soomer, all of the Keystone Steel & Wire Company.

Additional names are Dean Loyal G. Tillotson, of Bradley University; Dr. Harold A. Vonachen, medical director of the Caterpillar Tractor Company; Professor Henry F. White, author and professor of economics at Bradley University; and Albert N. Whitlock, controller of the Caterpillar Tractor Company.

PEORIA COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of the latest published United States census returns, a statistical profile may be drawn of Peoria County as it was in 1950. This profile will show that the county then had a total population of 174,347—an increase of 13.7 per cent over its 1940 figure. In population rank, Peoria County in 1950 was rated 139th among the 3,103 counties of the United States.

Its principal city, however, has a metropolitan zone of greater dimensions than the county itself. Not only is Peoria the second largest city in Illinois (with a 1950 population of 111,856), but it has a metropolitan area that embraces both Peoria and Tazewell counties—an area of 1,292 square miles with a 1950 population of 250,512. Within this vast area, that same year, there were 311 manufacturing establishments which employed 47,054 persons.

Returning to Peoria County itself, the 1950 census figures show further that the county occupies a land area of 624 miles and that its density of population was 279 inhabitants per square mile. It had an urban population of 137,864 (dwellers in Peoria and other cities), a rural non-farm population of 28,050 (residents of towns, villages and country places) and a rural farm population of 8,433. In 1950 there were 17,303 infants under five years of age in the county, 15,599 persons sixty-five years old and over, and the median age was given as 31.9 years. Some 11,500 residents, during 1950, either lived in a different county of the United States or abroad. In that same year, also, there were 116,674 potential voters (citizens twenty-one years old and over).

Under the heading of vital statistics, Peoria County in 1950 had 4,012 live births, 1,760 deaths (including 89 infants) and 2,021 marriages.

The number of families (two or more persons related by marriage or blood) then in the county was 45,425 and the median income of all of these families was given as $3,598. More than 16 per cent of these families had incomes of less than $2,000 while 25.5 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, the county had a total of 25,775 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Of the 16,900 between the ages of seven and thirteen years (primary school age), 97.9 per cent were enrolled in primary schools, and of the 7,380 between the ages of fourteen and seventeen (high school age), 86.8 per cent were enrolled in high schools. The median number of school years completed for all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over was given as 9.8 years. More than 5 per cent of these completed less than five grades, while 37.7 per cent completed high school training. The institutional population (inmates of homes for delinquent or dependent children, homes for the aged, prisons, Peoria State Hospital, etc.) of the county in 1950 was 3,641.

With reference to the county's labor force in 1950, the figures show that it had a total potential force of 134,198 (persons fourteen years old and over). Actually employed, however, were 74,311, of which 80.7 per cent were males and 30.8 per cent were females. A little over 26,000 were employed in manufacturing, 15,278 were employed in wholesale and retail trade, 6,115 in professional and related services, 5,189 in transportation, communication and other public utilities, 4,152 in business and personal services, 3,846 in construction, 2,770 in agriculture, 2,455 in finance, insurance and real estate, and 488 in mining. The labor figures are summed up by showing that 36.7 per cent of Peoria County's total employed persons in 1950 were engaged in manufacturing, while 3.9 per cent were engaged in agriculture.

There were 52,935 dwelling units in the county in 1950 (in 1940 there were 44,330). The median number of rooms per unit was given as 4.6. More than 69 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures (including occupied trailers), 18.0 per cent were built in 1940 or later, and 66.9 per cent had hot running water with private toilet and bath.

The housing figures showed further that 61.6 per cent of all units were owner-occupied, 3.0 per cent were occupied by non-white households, 77.6 per cent had central heating, 85.3 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 97.9 per cent had radios. There were 50,524 houses classified as non-farm dwelling units, and the median value of these was given as $8,167. The median gross monthly rental of renter-occupied houses was given as $44.49.

In 1948, when the last United States business census was taken, there were 1,887 retail stores in the county and these grossed a total of $190,898,000 in sales. The largest group, numbering 539, were eating and drinking places, and these grossed $18,903,000 in sales. The next largest were food stores, which numbered 463 and which grossed $39,392,000 in sales. That same year, there were 352 wholesale establishments in the county, which grossed $358,903,000 in sales. In the field of personal, business and repair services, there were 636 such establishments and total receipts of these amounted to $13,366,000.

As we have already indicated, Peoria County is more of an industrial county than an agricultural one. In 1947, when the last manufacturing census was taken, the county had a total of 219 manufacturing establishments which employed 17,476 persons and which turned out products in the amount of $158,056,000 (the value of all of the county's farm products in 1949 was $14,154,000). Salaries and wages paid by all manufacturing establishments in 1947 amounted to $51,423,000.

On the subject of agriculture, Peoria County in 1950 had a total of 2,252 farms, of which 1,806 were classified as commercial farms. A little more than 31 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $29,008. As has already been stated, the value of all farm products sold in 1949, four years after the close of World War II, was $14,154,000. In that same year, farm expenditures amounted to $1,628,000 for livestock and poultry feed and $665,000 for hired labor.

The United States census figures for 1950 showed, finally, that Peoria County in that year had bank deposits (deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations) amounting to $159,784,000. In addition, savings capital in the county's ten savings and loan associations amounted to $52,212,000, with $55,079,000 in first mortgage bonds outstanding.

CITY OF PEORIA

As the story of Peoria County is largely the story of Peoria city, the reader is referred to the opening historical narrative of this book for details of the city's past. Today, Peoria stands forth as the second largest city in Illinois and as one of America's leading manufacturing centers, famed alike for its great Caterpillar Tractor Company plant and for its great Hiram Walker & Sons distillery.

Occupying a mid-position on the important Lakes-to-Gulf Waterway and served by a dozen leading railroads and truck lines, Peoria city in 1950 had a total population of 111,856—an increase of 6.4 per cent over its 1940 figure. It has, however, a metropolitan zone embracing both Peoria and Tazewell counties, with a land area of 1,292 square miles and a population of 250,512. This vast zone is linked together by two great bridges over the Illinois River.

From Lake Peoria, on which the city is located, one can see the extensive plants of Hiram Walker & Sons, Inc., and the National Distillers Products Corporation, two of the largest distilleries in America. On the opposite shore, in East Peoria, stand the many buildings of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, which employs more than 21,000 persons and whose caterpillar tractors and Diesel engines are shipped out to all parts of the world.

Other leading industrial plants in the Peoria metropolitan area are the Keystone Steel & Wire Company (fences and wire products); Le Tourneau-Westinghouse Company (earth-moving machinery); Pabst Brewing Company (beer); Armour & Company (meats); Altorfer Bros. Company (home laundry equipment); Princess Peggy, Inc. (cotton dresses); R. Herschel Manufacturing Company (farm equipment); Bemis Bros. Bag Company (paper sacks); Hyster Company (industrial trucks); Meyer Furnace Company (air furnaces, air conditioners); Hart-Carter Company (harvesting equipment); and Allied Mills, Inc. (livestock and poultry feeds).

Peoria city is also the focus of a four-county (Peoria, Fulton, Knox and Henry) coal mining region which employs nearly 3,000 men and produces some 8,000,000 tons of coal annually at an approximate value of $30,000,000. Fronting on Lake Peoria is the city's great Municipal River and Rail Terminal, serving both land and water traffic. Just southwest of the city lie the long runways of the Greater Peoria Airport.

In addition to its industrial plants, Peoria is noted for its Bradley University, founded more than fifty years ago and now one of the Prairie State's leading institutions of higher learning. Here, too, may be found numerous park and riverside drives, including Glen Oak Park, and, across the river, Fort Crevecoeur State Park. Fourteen miles northwest of Peoria is located Jubilee College State Park. A village just outside the city is Peoria Heights, which has a population of 5,425—an increase of 24.0 per cent over its 1940 figure.

PRINCEVILLE

Located near the north boundary of the county at the junction of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads, the incorporated village of Princeville today has a population of 1,113. It has numerous retail stores, service establishments, a postoffice and banking facilities. The village was platted in 1837 by William C. Stevens, Benjamin Clark and Jesse M. McCutcheon. Today, Princeville is the main community of Princeville Township, with a total population of 1,582. First settler of the township was Stephen French, who came in the early 1830's. The township was named after Daniel Prince, early settler.

Only other community of Akron Township is the small village of Akron, with a population of seventeen. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Edelstein. Akron village is located on the Chicago & North Western Railroad. It was founded soon after the railroad was built through the region about seventy-five years ago.

BRIMFIELD

Northwest of Peoria city, on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, lies the incorporated village of Brimfield, with a population of 648. Through it runs US 150. The village contains a number of retail stores, service establishments, a postoffice and banking facilities. Brimfield village was laid out in 1836 by Abner Clark and at first was called Charleston. It is now the only community in Brimfield Township, which has a total population of 1,225. First settler of the township was Philip Atkinson, who came in 1834.

CHILLICOTHE

One of the older communities of Peoria County is the city of Chillicothe, located at the upper end of Lake Peoria. It has a population of 2,767. Here are manufactured tanks, foundry products, women's cotton dresses and yeast. There are several gravel and sand pits near Chillicothe. The city is served by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and the Santa Fe railroads and by State 29. It was in 1838 that James T. Temple and Harrison H. Jamison platted a town here to which they gave the name Chillicothe. Today, this city is the principal community of Chillicothe Township, which has a total population of 5,561. Among early settlers in the township were William and Jeremiah Moffitt, who came about 1834 and built a grist mill here, and Ashbel Merrill, who arrived about the same time and soon afterwards erected a saw mill.

NORTH CHILLICOTHE

Adjacent to Chillicothe city lies North Chillicothe, a village which in 1950 had a population of 1,741. West of the village flows Senachwine Creek, so-named after an early Indian chief of the region. The village is served by the postoffice at Chillicothe city.

ROME

Another community in Chillicothe Township is the village of Rome, with a population of 300. It is located on the Illinois River and is served by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and by State 29. The village was laid out in 1835 by Isaac Underhill, early settler.

POLYCONIC PROJECTION

ELMWOOD

At the western edge of Peoria County, in a fertile agricultural and rich coal mining area, lies the city of Elmwood, birthplace of the late Lorado Taft, one of the foremost of American sculptors. Two outstanding sights of the city are the modest home in which Taft was born in 1860 and "The Pioneers," a bronze statuary group executed by Lorado Taft. The sculptor's daughter, Emily, is now the wife of United States Senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois.

With a present population of 1,613, Elmwood city is an important shipping point for coal, hogs, corn and soybeans. It is situated on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on state highways 8 and 78. The city was platted in 1852 by William J. Phelps and named after his first home in the vicinity. Today, it is the principal community of Elmwood Township, which has a total population of 2,220. First settler of the township was John E. Ewalt, who came in 1831.

SOUTHPORT

Another community in Elmwood Township is the hamlet of Southport, with a population of seventeen. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Oak Hill (in Rosefield Township). Southport is situated on State 8.

EDELSTEIN

Just north of Peoria, on the Santa Fe Railroad and State 88, is located the village of Edelstein, with a population of 188. The village was founded in 1887 on land originally owned by Samuel Burns. Shortly afterwards, Robert A. Green erected a grain elevator here and thereafter not only handled grain but coal, tile, seeds and livestock. Today, Edelstein is the principal community of Hallock Township, which has a total population of 990. The township was named after Lewis Hallock, who came here in 1820 and who was among the earliest settlers of Peoria County.

WEST HALLOCK

Another community in Hallock Township is the small village of West Hallock, with a population of thirty-three. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Edelstein. The village was founded more than fifty years ago and originally contained a large cheese factory.

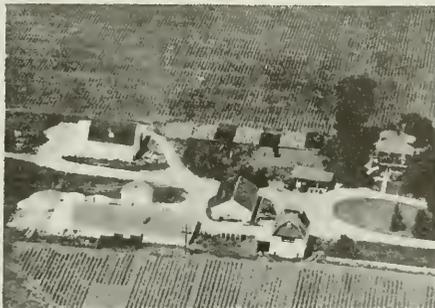

LAWN RIDGE

Another community in Hallock Township is the village of Lawn Ridge, with a population of forty-seven. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Edelstein. The village is located adjacent to the Marshall County line on State 88. Lawn Ridge was founded more than fifty years ago.

HALLOCK

Also in Hallock Township is the small community of Hallock, located in the north part of the township near the Marshall County line. The farming area around it is drained by nearby Henry Creek.

MAPLETON

In an old coal mining area on the Illinois River southwest of Peoria city lies the village of Mapleton, with a present population of 250. Through it runs the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad, US 24 and State 9. The village was laid out in 1868 by John T. Lindsay, of Peoria, and Samuel Gilfoy and William T. Maple, of Hollis Township. Mapleton is the principal community of Hollis Township, which has a total population of 1,329. The township was named after Denzil Hollis, an early settler. First to arrive in the township was Andrew Tharp, who came in 1826.

TUSCARORA

Another community in Hollis Township is the village of Tuscarora, with a population of 100. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Peoria city. Principal street through the village is US 24. The village is located on the Chicago & North Western Railroad.

ORCHARD MINES

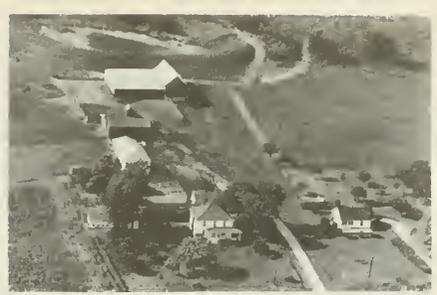

At the intersection of US 24 and State 9, in Hollis Township, is located the village of Orchard Mines, with a population of 200. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Peoria city. Through the village runs the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad.

HOLLIS

Also in Hollis Township is the village of Hollis, with a population of forty-four. This village was laid out in 1868 by E. J. and M. A. Jones. Through it run the Chicago & North Western, the Peoria Terminal and the Toledo, Peoria & Western railroads.

ST. JUBILEE COLLEGE

JUBILEE

Located fourteen miles northwest of Peoria city, Jubilee village is widely famed for its Jubilee College State Park. The village has a present population of fifteen and is served by the postoffice at nearby Oak Hill. It was here that the Right Reverend Philander Chase, first bishop of the Episcopal Church in Illinois, established Jubilee College in 1839. It continued in existence until after Bishop Chase's death in 1852. Surviving to the present time, the old Jubilee College building is now an historic shrine maintained by the State of Illinois. The township in which it is located, Jubilee, has a total population of 500. One of the earliest settlers of the township was Bishop Chase, who came in 1836 and at first lived with his family in a log cabin.

POTTSTOWN

West of Peoria city, in a pioneer coal mining district, lies the village of Pottstown, with a population of 316. It is served by the postoffice at Peoria. Through the village run State 8 and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. Pottstown was platted in 1889 by Mrs. Ann Potts, widow of Samuel Potts, one of the early mine operators of the area. It is the principal community of Kickapoo Township, which has a total population of 2,508. Among the earliest settlers of the township were William and Asahel Hale, who came in 1835 and built a saw mill in the region.

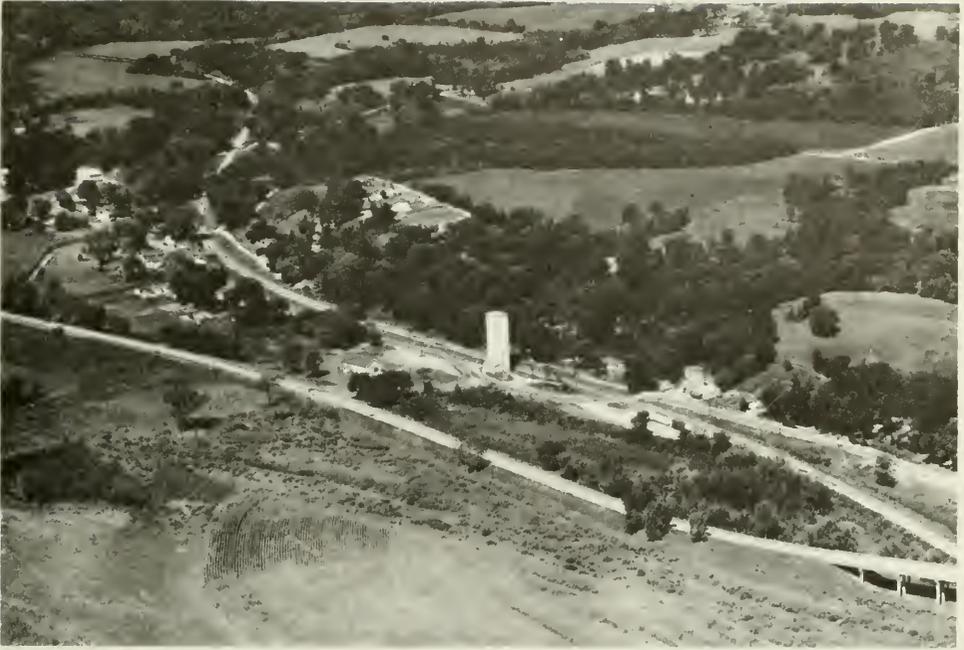

ORANGE PRAIRIE

Still another community in Kickapoo Township is Orange Prairie, a scattered settlement of dwellings in the area just south of US 150. In its vicinity is located the hamlet of Radnor.

KICKAPOO

Having a present population of 200, the village of Kickapoo is one of the oldest in Peoria County. It was platted in 1836 by John Coyle, early settler. The village became an important stopping-place for travelers on the old stagecoach road out of Peoria city. Today, Kickapoo is located on US 150.

EDWARDS

Also in Kickapoo Township is the old village of Edwards, which had its origin as far back as 1836 when a mill was built here by George Berry. Today, Edwards has a population of 200. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 8.

BARTONVILLE

A suburb of Peoria city, Bartonville village, with a population of 2,437, contains numerous large manufacturing plants, among them being the Keystone Steel & Wire Company, Pabst Brewing Company, and Allied Mills, Inc. The village was founded more than fifty years ago by miners who worked the various coal mines of the area. Near Bartonville is located the landscaped grounds and buildings of the Peoria State Hospital, which cares for some 3,000 mental patients. This village is the principal community of Limestone Township, which has a total population of 15,630. First permanent settlers of the township were Joseph Moffatt and his three sons, Alva, Aquilla and Benjamin, all of whom arrived in 1822.

BELLEVUE

Also in Limestone Township is the village of Bellevue, which was incorporated in 1941. It has a present population of 1,529. Just southwest of the village is located the Greater Peoria Airport, principal landing field of the county. Bellevue is situated on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad.

HANNA CITY

Hanna City has a present population of 671. It is located west of Peoria on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad and on State 116. Hanna City was founded more than seventy-five years ago when coal mining was started in the area around it. It is now the principal community of Logan Township, which has a total population of 1,795. The township was organized in 1850 and its first supervisor was Thomas P. Smith. Settlers came to the township as early as 1830.

EDEN

Another community of Logan Township is the village of Eden, with a population of seventy-five. The village is located west of Hanna City on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad. In its vicinity winds Copperas Creek. The village was founded in 1883 by Milo M. Long.

SMITHVILLE

Also in Logan Township is Smithville, a village of twenty-five inhabitants established more than a hundred years ago by Thomas P. Smith. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Hanna City.

MOSSVILLE

Overlooking Lake Peoria, north of the city, lies the village of Mossville, with a population of 200. It is situated on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on State 29. Mossville began its existence as a station on the Peoria & Bureau Valley Railroad (now the Rock Island) soon after the road was built in 1854. The village was laid out by William S. Moss, a Peoria distiller who later became one of the builders of the Peoria & Oquawka Railroad. Today, Mossville is the principal community of Medina Township, with a total population of 2,117. First settler of the township was George Love, who arrived with his family in 1824.

ALTA

Another community of Medina Township is the village of Alta, with a population of 85. It is located on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and State 174. The village was platted in 1854 by Imri Case, Loren Wilder and Thomas Hanson, three early residents of Medina Township.

LAURA

In the northwest corner of Peoria County may be found the village of Laura, with a population of 200. It is located on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad and on State 78. The village was laid out in 1888 by James M. Keller, who also served as first postmaster. Laura is the principal community of Millbrook Township, which has a total population of 678. First settlers of the township were William Metcalf, his wife and two small children, and a boy named Amos McRil, all of whom arrived in 1833.

ELMORE

Another community of Millbrook Township is the village of Elmore, with a population of 105. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Laura. The village is located near historic Spoon River, a stream made famous by the literary classic Spoon River Anthology, written by the late Edgar Lee Masters.

PRINCEVILLE

A small portion of the village of Princeville, numbering 184 inhabitants, lies in Akron Township, northwest of Peoria city. The main part of the village is in adjoining Princeville Township (it has a total population of 1,113). In 1950 Akron Township had a population of 834. The township was organized in 1850 and its first supervisor was Benjamin Slane. First settler of the township was Hugh Montgomery, who came in 1831. In a contested election case in Akron Township in 1868 a number of prominent lawyers appeared, among them Robert G. Ingersoll and Adlai E. Stevenson the Elder.

MONICA

Another community of Princeville Township is Monica village, which has a population of 153. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and just south of State 90. The village was founded more than a hundred years ago and at first was called Cornwall.

DUNLAP

Laid out in 1871 by Alva Dunlap, early settler, the incorporated village of Dunlap today has a population of 576. It is located northwest of Peoria city on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad and on State 91. This village is the only community in Radnor Township, which has a total population of 1,234. First settler of the township is believed to have been Erastus Peet, who arrived in 1834.

LOGAN TOWNSHIP

OAK HILL

Having a present population of 100, the village of Oak Hill was platted in 1856 by Joseph Bohrer and William M. Dodge, both of Peoria. It was built soon after the construction, through the area, of the Peoria & Oquawka Railroad, now part of the Burlington System. Oak Hill is located northwest of Peoria city on State 8. It is the principal community of Rosefield Township, which has a total population of 1,004. First settlers of the township were Levi Coolidge, Minnie Rynearson, William Nixon, Casper Yinger, and John and David Combs, all of whom came about 1831 or 1832.

KRAMM

Another community of Rosefield Township is the hamlet of Kramm, with a population of sixteen. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Oak Hill. Kramm began its existence more than fifty years ago as a coal shipping point for mines in its vicinity.

OLIN

Still another community in Rosefield Township is Olin. It is located northwest of Edwards village on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad.

LOGAN TOWNSHIP

GLASFORD

Southwest of Peoria city, near the Illinois River, lies the incorporated village of Glasford, with a population of 922. It is located on the Toledo, Peoria & Western Railroad and just north of State 9. The village was founded in 1868 by Samuel A. Glasford, who had come from Ohio. One of the most prominent early residents of Glasford was Colonel A. L. Fahnstock, merchant, officer in the Civil War and one-time treasurer of Peoria County. Glasford is the principal community of Timber Township, which has a total population of 2,134.

KINGSTON MINES

Another community of Timber Township is the incorporated village of Kingston Mines, with a population of 404. It has several retail stores, service establishments and a postoffice. The community is located on the site of an ancient Indian village.

LANCASTER

Also in Timber Township is the hamlet of Lancaster. It is located west of Glasford. The hamlet was laid out more than seventy-five years ago by Samuel F. Bolinger.

TRIVOLI

One of the older communities of Peoria County is the village of Trivoli, which today has a population of 250. It is located in the southwest corner of the county on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad and on State 116. The village was founded in the middle 1830's. Today, it is the principal community of Trivoli Township, which has a total population of 919. First settler of the township was Isaac Harkness, who arrived in 1830.

CRAMER

Another community of Trivoli Township is the village of Cramer, with a population of thirty-five. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Elmwood city. Cramer began its existence more than seventy-five years ago as a shipping point for the surrounding countryside.

"Land of Lincoln"

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

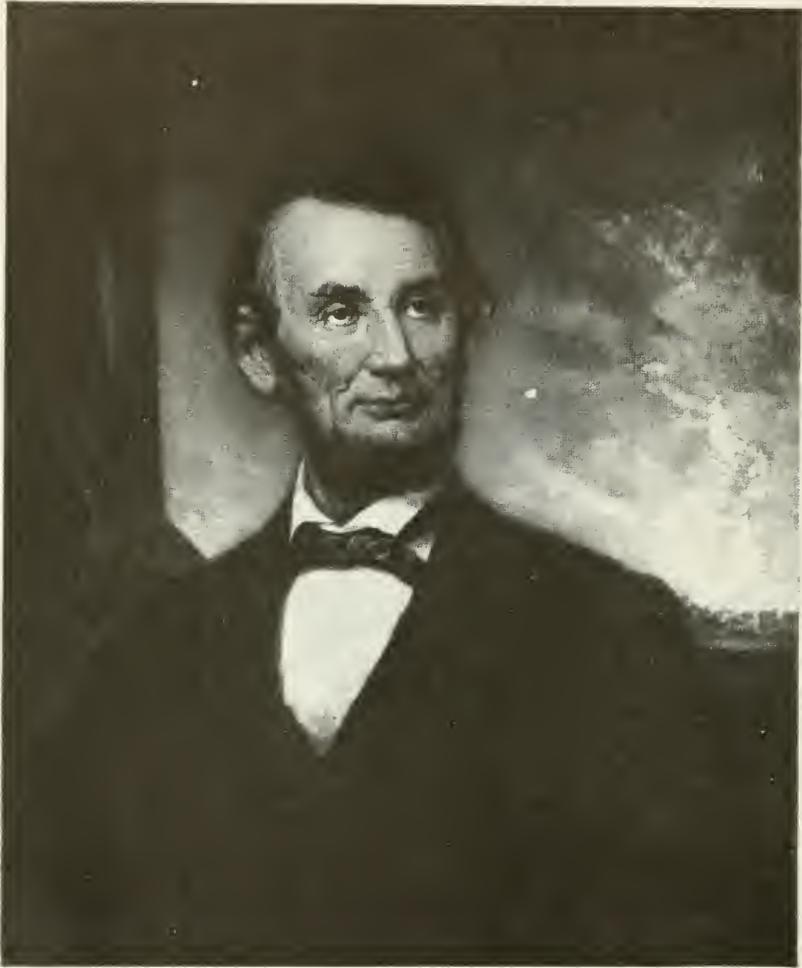

The articles and other textual material contained in the following pages are from the Illinois Blue Book, 1953-1954, edited by Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier. For permission to use this material the Publisher is indebted to Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier. . . For permission to use the photographs of state parks, state memorials and conservation areas included in the following pages, the Publisher is indebted to Mr. Robert G. Miley, Superintendent of the Division of Parks & Memorials of the Illinois Department of Conservation, and to Mr. Carl G. Hodges, Superintendent of the Division of Reports in the Illinois Department of Finance.

The "Illinois — Land of Lincoln" insignia used on many publications and exhibits of the Secretary of State's office was designed by Secretary Carpentier within a few days after he took office in January, 1953. Mr. Carpentier wanted a distinctive original marking to identify material issued by his office, but also one which would be a brief, appropriate description of and tribute to the State.

The insignia became popular immediately, and in the 1953 session of the General Assembly, Senator Fred J. Hart of Streator introduced a bill in the Senate which would require that it be reproduced on Illinois motor vehicle license plates.

When investigation revealed that this would materially increase the cost of the license plates, Senator Hart was consulted and asked to amend his bill to make placing of the insignia on the plates discretionary with the Secretary. Senator Hart agreed to make the amendment, and since then Illinois license plates have carried the words, Land of Lincoln

The Great Seal of Illinois

THE PRESENT GREAT SEAL of Illinois was authorized by the Assembly on March 7, 1867, but was not used until October 26, 1868, and an unusual situation is involved in the history of the seal.

According to Brand Whitlock, famous author, the first of all the seals used for official documents in what is now Illinois, was that of 1788. It was known as "The Seal of the Territory of the U. S. N. W. of the Ohio River." The words were within two concentric circles. The center of the seal showed a river, on which rode two canoes, with woodland showing beyond the river.

In 1800, when Indiana Territory, which included Illinois, was created, a new seal was needed. This situation was met by duplicating the seal of the Northwest Territory, the only change being the substitution of the words "Indiana Territory" within the circles.

When Illinois Territory came into existence in 1809, still another seal was required. So the fathers made an almost exact copy of the Great Seal of the United States, merely eliminating the "E Pluribus Unum." This seal was first used on February 4, 1810.

When Illinois gained Statehood in 1818, the second session of the First General Assembly decreed on February 19, 1819, that it was the duty of the Secretary of State to procure a permanent State seal, as was to be agreed upon by the Governor—Shadrach Bond—and the Justices of the Supreme Court—Thomas C. Browne, William P. Foster, Joseph Phillips, John Reynolds and William Wilson. The new seal was another duplicate of the United States seal, but differed from the preceding seal of the Territory in that the Eagle held a scroll in its beak on which were the words of the State motto, "State Sovereignty—National Union." As previously, the eagle held a bunch of arrows in one talon, an olive branch in the other, with the escutcheon on its chest.

Seal of the Illinois Territory, sketched by the late Mr. Brand Whitlock and reproduced in the Journal of the Illinois Historical Society.

First Great Seal, adopted after Statehood. Sketched by the late Mr. Whitlock and reproduced from the Illinois Historical Society's Journal.

This seal remained in use until late October, 1868 when inexplicable activities by Sharon Tyndale, Secretary of State, brought about the creation of the seal which exists today.

Tyndale, in January 1867, told Senator Allen C. Fuller that the old seal had outlived its usefulness, that a new one was necessary, and asked Fuller to sponsor a bill to change it. The bill was presented to the Senate January 7, 1867, and passed without comment. It went to the House and when read there on January 10th, Assemblyman Dinsmore from Whiteside County suggested an amendment to read that the new seal was to be "an exact facsimile of the present seal."

The amendment was defeated 31 to 46.

Dinsmore's beaten amendment created immediate suspicion of the bill. It was recalled to the Senate. The vote that approved the bill was reconsidered. It was discovered that Tyndale planned in the new seal to reverse the wording on the scroll, changing it from "State Sovereignty, National Union" to "National Union, State Sovereignty." The recent Civil War, he believed, put national union above state sovereignty. But the change that he contemplated was thwarted by a Senate amendment which ruled that the words on the scroll of the renewed seal were to correspond with the old seal in every particular.

The bill was passed March 7, 1867 in its amended form.

The old seal continued in use until its last official imprint on October 24, 1868, and the final impressions were sharp and clear, indicating it was not "badly out of order" as had been claimed by Tyndale.

The new seal, which is the present one and which was designed by Tyndale, is a radical departure from the old. When it first appeared, and all through the years since, the reasons for the inside design, made at Tyndale's direction, have puzzled many beholders.

The shield no longer adorns the eagle's breast, but is in a titled position on the ground; the arrows are gone; the branch bears little resemblance to an olive branch; the eagle is sitting on a boulder in a prairie, and a rising sun shines on a distant Eastern horizon. Strangest of all, the wording on the seal ignores the amendment and "National Union" appears above "State Sovereignty."

Second Great Seal of the State of Illinois. While this design differed from the first Seal, it remained unchanged in a heraldic sense.

Present Great Seal bearing altered design introduced in 1868. This design is far removed in meaning from that of the original State Seal.

STATE FLAG OF ILLINOIS

State Flag of Illinois

ILLINOIS STATE FLAG was officially adopted on July 6, 1915, after a vigorous campaign by Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Early in 1912, Mrs. Lawrence began visiting local D. A. R. chapters throughout Illinois seeking cooperation in promoting selection of an official State banner to place in the Continental Memorial Hall in Washington, D. C. In 1913, Mrs. Lawrence offered a prize of $25.00 to the Illinois D. A. R. chapter submitting the best design for the banner. She also wrote to members of the General Assembly seeking their cooperation.

Four judges were then selected to choose the winning design. Thirty-five designs were submitted and the Rockford Chapter entry was chosen as Illinois' future emblem.

State Senator Raymond D. Meeker introduced the bill which was to legalize the flag. After passage in the Senate it was pushed through the House of Representatives, despite an overcrowded calendar.

The measure automatically became a law July 6, 1915, when the Governor failed to affix his signature to the bill.

The first official flag, made in Washington, D. C., was three by five feet in size, of white silk. Flags were given by Mrs. Lawrence to Secretary of State; Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (to hang in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.); Rebecca Parks Chapter, Galesburg and the Illinois State Historical Society.

Visitors to Springfield cannot fail to notice the State Banner flanking the Stars and Stripes in the Rotunda at the State House. In the same juxtaposition it appears in the office of the Secretary of State. It is flown on ceremonial days by numerous patriotic bodies throughout the State. For officials and the public alike it stands as a reminder of our greatness as a State and our pride in our membership in the United States of America.

State's Official Tree, Flower and Bird Chosen by School Children

THE MIGHTY OAK is the State tree of Illinois.

The shrinking violet is the State flower.

And the vivid red cardinal, with its lilting song, is the State bird of Illinois.

All three were chosen through ballot by school children, with the selections made official by acts of the Assembly.

In 1907, Mrs. James C. Fessler, of Rochelle, suggested that school children be permitted to vote on the State tree and the State flower. The ballots were distributed in November 1907, and the results were as follows:

State Tree
Oak	21,897
Maple	16,517
Elm	5,082
State Flower
Violet	16,583
Wild Rose	12,628
Golden Rod	4,315

In January 1908, Senator Andrew J. Jackson, of Rockford, introduced a bill making the Oak the official tree of Illinois, and the Violet the State flower. The measure was adopted in February, 1908.

There are 19 species of Oak trees in Illinois, eleven belonging to the black Oak group, the others to the white.

The Violet grows in practically every section of Illinois, and, in Springtime blankets the landscapes as far as eye can see.

In 1928 the Macomb branch of the National Federation of Professional Women's Club decided that there should be an official State bird. The idea was submitted to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who approved, and a list of five birds, conspicuous in Illinois, was submitted to the school children that year, for balloting. A blank space was included in the event the children wished to vote for birds other than the five named.

A total of 128,664 ballots were cast in 96 counties, and the result was as follows:

Cardinal	39,226
Blue Bird	30,306
Meadow Lark	16,237
Quail	15,843
Oriole	15,449

A bill authorizing the Cardinal as the official State bird was introduced in the 56th Assembly by Representative James Foster, and adopted June 4, 1929.

The Cardinal, officially known as Cardinalis Cardinalis, sometimes is called the redbird and also the Cardinal grosbeck. The adult bird is about eight inches long. It has a head with a conspicuous crest, but it is only the male whose coloring is a brilliant red. The female shade is olive gray.

Official State Song "Illinois"

AN ACT ESTABLISHING A STATE SONG.

Be it enacted by the People of the State of Illinois represented in the General Assembly:

SECTION 1. The song "Illinois" having words written by C. H. Chamberlain* and music composed by Archibald Johnston, is established as the official State Song of Illinois.

[* Correspondence, dating back more than forty years, recently acquired by the State Historical Library, indicates several mistakes that have become almost as well established as the song itself, according to Dr. Harry E. Pratt, State Historian. One has to do with spelling of the name of the author of the song, Charles H. Chamberlin. Usually it is spelled Chamberlain, which is incorrect. Two of the letters are from Oscar B. Knight, a friend of Chamberlin, for whom the song was written and who first sang it. Previously, the date it was written has been given as between 1890 and 1894. Knight says, in one of these letters, that he suggested the material for the fourth and final verse and that Chamberlin finished the song in his office in the summer of 1892.

This differs from the usual version that the song was written earlier and first used in the campaign to have the World's Columbian Exposition awarded to Chicago. The Knight letter also states that in the spring of 1892 Chamberlin had written a campaign song with the refrain, "April fool, April fool," (the election was on April 1), to be sung to the tune of "Baby Mine." He said he knew of no other inspiration" for "Illinois."]

Words of the song follow:

ILLINOIS

By the rivers gently flowing, Illinois, Illinois,
O'er thy prairies verdant growing, Illinois, Illinois,
Comes an echo on the breeze,
Rustling through the leafy trees, and its mellow tones are these,
Illinois, Illinois,
And its mellow tones are these, Illinois.

From a wilderness of prairies, Illinois, Illinois,
Straight thy way and never varies, Illinois, Illinois,
Till upon the inland sea,
Stands thy great commercial tree, turning all the world to thee,
Illinois, Illinois,
Turning all the world to thee, Illinois.

When you heard your country calling, Illinois, Illinois
Where the shot and shell were falling, Illinois, Illinois,
When the Southern host with-drew,
Pitting Gray against the Blue, There were none more brave than you,
Illinois, Illinois
There were none more brave than you, Illinois.

Not without thy wondrous story, Illinois, Illinois,
Can be writ the nation's glory, Illinois, Illinois,
On the record of thy years,
Abraham Lincoln's name appears, Grant and Logan, and our tears,
Illinois, Illinois,
Grant and Logan, and our tears, Illinois.

Chronology of Illinois History 1673-1954

- 1673 Marquette and Jolliet descend the Mississippi to the Arkansas and return by way of the Illinois River.
- 1674-75 Marquette and two companions spend the winter in a shelter at the mouth of the Chicago River.
- 1675 Marquette founds the mission of the Immaculate Conception at the Great Village of the Illinois, near present Utica.
- 1680 La Salle builds Fort Crevecoeur on the Illinois River, near present Peoria.
- 1682 La Salle builds Fort St. Louis on Starved Rock.
- 1691-92 Tonti and LaForest build the second Fort St. Louis, better known as Fort Pimiteoui, on Lake Peoria.
- 1696 Father Pinet establishes the mission of the Guardian Angel at Chicago. After a troubled existence of about four years this Jesuit venture among the Miami is abandoned, and Father Pinet leaves Chicago to labor among the Illinois Indians in the Cahokia region.
- 1699 Montigny and St. Cosme, priests of the Seminary of Foreign Missions, establish the Holy Family mission at Cahokia.
- 1703 In APRIL, the Jesuits transfer their Illinois Indian mission from Des Peres (present St. Louis) to the Kaskaskia River, thus founding the town of Kaskaskia.
- 1717 By decree of the French Royal Council, Illinois is to be governed from Louisiana.
- 1718 Boisbriant, first commandant of Illinois, arrives at Kaskaskia.
- 1718-30 Fox War. Hostile tribes, under the leadership of the Fox Indians, form a confederacy that menaces the Illinois Country. Their depredations continue until the Fox are defeated and practically annihilated by a combination of French and friendly Indians.
- 1719 Fort de Chartres, near present Prairie du Rocher, is begun. It is completed the following year, and becomes the seat of military and civil government in Illinois.
- 1725 Dutisne becomes commandant, succeeding Boisbriant.
- 1726 De Liette succeeds Dutisne as commandant.
- 1727 Fort de Chartres, fallen into disrepair and recently inundated by Mississippi floods, is rebuilt.
- 1730 St. Ange succeeds De Liette as commandant of the Illinois.
- 1732 St. Ange builds a new Fort de Chartres half a mile farther back from the river.
- 1733 Dartaguiette replaces St. Ange as commandant.
- 1736 La Buissoniere succeeds Dartaguiette as commandant.

Old Battle Flags of Illinois

THE ILLINOIS REGIMENTAL FLAGS which flew through four wars—Mexican, Civil, Spanish-American and World War I—have hallowed places in Memorial Hall, on the first floor of the Centennial Building in Springfield.

There are two from the Mexican War, of 1846-1848; 346 from the Civil War, 1861-1865; 22 from the Spanish-American War, 1898, and 93 from the World War I in which Illinois' men played such gallant roles.

The Mexican, Civil, and Spanish War flags, torn and faded in combat, have been quilted between sheets of black netting to prevent further deterioration. The delicate task necessitated the efforts of 20 women, who worked almost five years on the project. These flags have lost almost all their color, but the World War flags, which were not carried into battle, retain much of their original rich shades.

In addition to the flags, Memorial Hall contains the head-dress of the soldiers in the four wars.

Spaced around the architrave beneath the gold-leaved ceiling of the hall are the names of 28 of Illinois' war heroes: Smith D. Atkins, Edward Dickinson Baker, William H. Bissel, Napoleon Bonaparte Buford, William Passmore Carlin, Elon John Farnsworth, Ulysses S. Grant, Benjamin H. Grierson, Martin D. Hardin, James D. Henry, Stephen A. Hurlbut, John Basil Turchin, John A. Logan, Wesley Merritt, James Dady Morgan, James A. Mulligan, John Alexander McClelland, Richard J. Oglesby, John McCauley Palmer, John Pope, Benjamin Mayberry Prentiss, John A. Rawlins, Richard Rowett, John McAllister Schofield, James Shiel's, George W. Smith, William Henry Lamb Wallace, and James Harrison Wilson.

MACON, for Nathaniel Macon, a Colonel during the Revolution and later a Representative and United States Senator in Congress from North Carolina. He strenuously opposed the adoption of the United States Constitution as conferring powers on the Federal government which should be reserved to the States.

MARSHALL, for John Marshall, a soldier of the Revolution, statesman, author and jurist, Ambassador to France, Representative in Congress from Virginia, Secretary of State and Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

RANDOLPH, for Edmund Randolph, a soldier of the Revolution, a lawyer and statesman, member of the Continental Congress, Attorney General and Governor of Virginia, Secretary of State of the United States and Attorney General under Washington.

SHELBY, for Isaac Shelby, a soldier of the Revolution and Indian wars, Governor of Kentucky (1792-1796) and again (1812-1816). He commanded the Kentucky troops in the battle of the Thames in the War of 1812.

TAZEWELL, for Lyttleton W. Tazewell, an eminent lawyer, Governor, Representative in Congress, and United States Senator from Virginia.

Nine counties of Illinois adopted the names of counties of other states through the influence of emigrants from the counties whose names were thus adopted: CHAMPAIGN and RICHLAND from Ohio; CHRISTIAN, HARDIN, HENDERSON, MASON, SCOTT, and WOODFORD from Kentucky; and WILLIAMSON from Tennessee.

Seven counties bear Indian names, given originally, as a general rule, to a creek, river or lake, and afterward transferred to the county. These named are IROQUOIS, KANKAKEE, MACOUPIN, PEORIA, SANGAMON, WABASH and WINNEBAGO.

Fourteen other counties derive their names from sources so diverse that they cannot easily be classified under any special head.

BOONE, for Daniel Boone, a pioneer hunter, Indian fighter and pathfinder of the early days.

BUREAU, for Pierre Buero, a French trader with the Indians.

CUMBERLAND, from the Cumberland road, named in its turn from the town of Cumberland, Maryland, which derived its name from the mountain range of the same name adopted, presumably, from the Cumberland mountains of Great Britain.

DUPAGE, from a small river of the same name said to have derived its name from a French trapper and trader of that region.

EFFINGHAM, for Lord Edward Effingham, who resigned his commission as general in the British army, 1775, refusing to serve in the war against the colonies.

FULTON, for Robert Fulton, the first successful builder of steamboats on American waters.

JERSEY, for the State of New Jersey, which derived its name from the Isle of Jersey, Great Britain.

LAKE, for Lake Michigan.

LASALLE, for Robert de LaSalle, the French explorer who effected the first white settlements in Illinois and explored the Mississippi to the Gulf.

MASSAC, from Fort Massac, a corruption of a French surname, Massiac.

ROCK ISLAND, from the rock island of that name in the Mississippi.

SALINE, from Saline creek, so called on account of numerous salt springs in that locality.

UNION, from the federal union of the American States.

VERMILION, from the river of that name, the principal branches of which flow through the county.

STATE GOVERNMENT OF ILLINOIS

Illinois' State Capitols

MANY YEARS AGO, in 1703, a group of Jesuits transferred their Illinois Indian Mission from Des Peres (present St. Louis) to the juncture of the Kaskaskia and Mississippi Rivers in what later was to be known as Randolph County.

This little settlement became Kaskaskia and on December 3, 1818, when Illinois was admitted to the Federal Union, it became the commonwealth's first Capital. Since that historic day, Illinois has had three governmental seats (Kaskaskia, Vandalia and Springfield) and six Capitols.

For more than a century, before becoming Illinois' fount of government, Kaskaskia played an important role in Illinois history, Kaskaskia was the scene of one of George Rogers Clark's early triumphs when he and a little army of Virginians captured it from the British in 1778. In 1809, when Illinois Territory was created by an Act of Congress, Kaskaskia was chosen as the territorial capital and it was the center of population when Nathaniel Pope petitioned Congress for statehood for his adopted territory on January 16, 1818. The Congressional Enabling Act was passed and Illinois became the 21st state on December 3, 1818.

The first Capitol, or State House, was rented. It was a two story brick building. The House of Representatives occupied the lower floor and on the floor above was the Senate Chambers. Meeting in this unimpressive setting, the first General Assembly composed of 13 Senators and 27 Representatives petitioned the Congress for a grant of land to serve as a new State Capital. The request was granted and a committee of five was named to choose the site. They decided upon "Reeves Bluff," later to be known as Vandalia, which was about 80 miles northeast on the Kaskaskia River from Kaskaskia.

The removal of the Capital from Kaskaskia to Vandalia grew out of a mania for speculation on the part of some of the State's early citizens who thought that money could be made by starting a land boom in a new location.

The origin of the name "Vandalia" is not known. For many years credence was given to the story that some wag managed to convince the founders that the spot had been inhabited by an extinct tribe of savages known as "Vandals." The most plausible suggested origin is that of Vandalia, Ohio. In 1775, forty-five years before the establishment of the new Illinois town, the Ohio Land Company's name had been changed to the Vandalia Land Company. From this sprang the name Vandalia, Ohio. Regardless of where the name originated the "city planners" proceeded to justify the story of vandalism by uprooting all the trees which might have shaded the public square and streets.

Kaskaskia Destroyed by River

After Vandalia became the Capital in 1820, Kaskaskia deteriorated, gradually disappearing under the waters of the Mississippi River which lapped its shores. In 1881, the river went on one of its many rampages, changed its course, moving eastward and then southwest to find its old channel. When the turbulent water had subsided an island had been created and a considerable portion of the ancient capital city had been washed away. Each recurring spring flood encroached further upon the site until the last vestige of historic Kaskaskia slipped into the Mississippi.

On the remaining portion of the present island is a farming community of around 150 persons and the island still bears the name Kaskaskia, perhaps to perpetuate in memory the little Capital which lies beneath the muddy Mississippi.

Original Capitol at Vandalia

A plain two story frame structure was erected in Vandalia. The lower floor was devoted to one room for the House of Representatives. A passage and stairway led to the second floor which consisted of two rooms, the larger for the Senate Chamber and the smaller for the Council of Revision. The Secretary of State, Auditor and Treasurer occupied rented offices detached from the Capitol.

The State's Archives, consisting of a small wagonload, were removed from Kaskaskia to Vandalia by Sidney Breese, then clerk to the Secretary of State who later became a Supreme Court Justice and U. S. Senator. Breese was paid $25.00 for his labor.

The first session of the Second General Assembly met in the first State-owned Capitol on December 4, 1820 and during its sitting passed an act making Vandalia the seat of government for the next twenty years.

On December 9, 1823 fire destroyed this first State-owned Capitol. During the summer of 1824 a new building was constructed of brick at a cost of $15,000. Soon thereafter agitation was started for the removal of the Capital to a site nearer the geographical center of the State. This sentiment caused the General Assembly to pass an act in 1833 whereby the voters at the following general election could decide the location for a new capital city.

The sites on which the vote was to be taken were Vandalia, Jacksonville, Springfield, Peoria, Alton, and the State's geographical center. Alton received the greatest number of votes but the margin was so small as to be inconclusive, and the vote was not announced officially as it would undoubtedly have been rejected by the next General Assembly. So the suggested removal from Vandalia was dropped until the 1836-37 session revived the question.

Lincoln Suggests Springfield

Residents of Vandalia were determined that they should retain the Capital so in the summer of 1836, without authorization, and while the legislature was recessed, they tore down the old Capitol. In its stead they erected a State House costing $16,000. This gesture, however, was in vain for with the return of the General Assembly Lincoln was successful in having Springfield named as Illinois' new Capital.

Matters then took a very different turn for the proposal was interesting a rising young lawyer known as Abraham Lincoln who represented Sangamon County. Lincoln introduced a bill providing for removal of the Capital of Illinois to Springfield, and he was backed by eight fellow members who with him were known as the Long Nine because their aggregate height was 54 feet.

On February 25, 1837, the Assembly passed a bill providing that the Capital be moved from Vandalia to some place nearer the center of the State and three days later Springfield was chosen as the new Capital City. Because the Act of Assembly in 1820, Vandalia was to continue as the Capital until December 1, 1840, but on June 20, 1839, Governor Thomas Carlin issued a proclamation that all State records be removed to Springfield by July 4, 1839.

The Eleventh General Assembly returned the Vandalia Capitol to the county of Fayette and the city of Vandalia, and the old State House still stands, though now again is State property.

The cornerstone of the State's fourth Capitol was laid at Springfield on July 4, 1837. After many delays the building finally was completed in 1853 at a total cost of $260,000 double its original estimate.

The building occupied the center of the square nearly three acres in extent, and was constructed of cut stone brought from a quarry six miles away. The building was considered one of the architectural wonders of the State.

This building is rich in Lincoln associations. After Lincoln became a resident of Springfield in 1837 he was, of course, one of the regular frequenters of the State House. In addition to serving in the legislature he appeared and argued nearly 250 cases before the Supreme Court, located in the edifice, and made frequent use of the State and Supreme Court libraries. In this building he often took public issue with Douglas, here he made his famous "House divided against itself" speech, here were his headquarters during his 1860 campaign for the Presidency, and here finally his remains rested on May 3-4, 1865, before burial at Oak Ridge.

Present State House Planned in 1867

Illinois continued to prosper and gain in population and soon it was apparent that a much larger Capitol would be needed. The enabling act was passed by the 25th General Assembly on February 24, 1867. This was the fifth of the buildings owned by the State and the one in use today.

The old Capitol at Springfield was sold to Sangamon County for $200,000. The deed was executed October 23, 1869, nearly seven years before the present Capitol was used. Certain alterations were made to this old building, the most remarkable one being that of raising the massive two-story structure high off the ground and while suspended, the present ground floor of the Sangamon County Court House was built.

Ground was broken for the present Capitol, March 11, 1868. Formal laying of the cornerstone took place October 5th of the same year. Still unfinished, the building was first occupied in 1876. Twenty-one years after the Legislature first authorized its construction, the building finally was completed. Originally construction costs were limited to $3,000,000, but before completion expenditures amounted to more than $4,500,000.

The present Capitol, situated on a nine acre plot, is in the form of a Latin Cross. The circular foundation, 92½ feet in diameter, upon which the vast dome rests, is 25½ feet below the grade line, set on solid rock. It is interesting to know that many feet below runs one of the richest veins of Illinois coal.

The walls supporting the dome are 17 feet thick from the foundation to the first story. They are built of granular magnesian limestone from quarries of Hancock County.

The outer walls of the superstructure are of Niagara limestone, that of the lower stories from the quarries of Joliet, and that of the upper stories from Lemont.

The extreme length of the building from north to south is 379 feet, and from east to west 268 feet. The height from the ground line to the top of the dome is 361 feet, and to the tip of the flagstaff 405 feet, the highest building in central Illinois. This led to the choice of the State House dome for the installation of the red beacon which glows through the night as a guidance for pilots. In 1949 the beacon was equipped with an electronic "eye" which turns the light on when visibility reaches a certain low—day or night. It used to operate on a clock device which turned the lights on in the evening and off in the morning, making no provision for foggy or overcast days.

Capitol Group of Buildings

Since the turn of the century, additional buildings have been erected on or near the capitol grounds as follows:

CENTENNIAL BUILDING—Cornerstone laid in 1918, completed in 1923. It was constructed to commemorate the 100th birthday of Illinois as a state of the Union. Costs were approximately $3,000,000. In this building are located the State Library, State Historical Library, the Museum, Memorial Hall (where flags of Illinois regiments are encased), and some state offices.

ARCHIVES BUILDING—Completed in 1938 at a cost of more than $800,000. It was designed and constructed to house the valuable historic and semi-current record of the State. Its architecture is unique and although it is seven stories, it contains no windows above the third floor. The building is air-conditioned and is as nearly fireproof as modern science can make it. At the time of construction, only two buildings of similar design were in the United States.

ARMORY BUILDING—Situated north of the State House across Monroe Street stands the Armory building. Here are housed the military branches of the State. Some offices under the Governor's administration are also located here.

SUPREME COURT BUILDING—Just east of the Capitol. A magnificent edifice of classic design. It was dedicated in 1908 and cost $500,000. In the building are the chambers of the State's Supreme Court, Office of the Attorney General and offices of the Appellate Court.

A network of tunnels connects all buildings.

ILLINOIS NEW OFFICE BUILDING—In a ceremony attended by high ranking state officials, Governor William G. Stratton, on February 15, 1954 broke ground for a new state office building.

To alleviate crowded working conditions and centralize state offices, the 68th General Assembly appropriated a total of $12,500,000 or so much thereof as may be needed, for construction and equipping of an office building for state purposes.

The new building and its adjacent parking area will be situated on a site two blocks long and one block wide. The building's dimensions will be 381 feet by 252 feet. The center of the H-shaped building will be eight stories high and the north and south wings will be seven stories. Basement space will include a cafeteria, mechanical equipment, storage space and a truck service dock.

A limestone exterior, with granite base and aluminum windows and trim, is planned. Completely air-conditioned, the building will have 445,020 square feet of gross floor space with 82 per cent of the space usable; only 18 per cent of the floor space will be taken up by service facilities such as storage, corridors and elevators. The imposing new structure will enable the state to consolidate its agencies, some of which now are scattered in 19 various locations in downtown Springfield because of crowded conditions in present state buildings.

The General Assembly approved the measure March 25, 1953. This building also will be connected to the Capitol by an underground tunnel.

Construction of Illinois' new office building officially began February 15, 1954. Among those pictured with Governor Stratton (at microphone) are: Mayor John MacWherter of Springfield; Charles F. Carpentier, Secretary of State; Earl Searcy, Clerk of the Supreme Court; State Senator Roland V. Libonati; Vernon L. Nickell, State Superintendent of Public Instruction; Latham Castle, Attorney General; Orville Hodge, State Auditor; State Senator Merritt Little and Edwin A. Rosenstone, Director of Public Works and Buildings.
